Care of Dormant or Cold Storage Buds for Spring Budding

Always order Dormant Buds a week or ten days before you intend to bud. When buds are received unwrap, dip in and out of cool water, wrap in tow sack rung out of cool water, place in shallow excavation in ground where sun will shine on them and cover with about two inches of earth, keep the earth damp, but do not let buds be in water. Inspect buds at least every other day. The time it takes the sap to rise depends on weather conditions, follow directions carefully and you will not be disappointed.

Care of Summer Buds

When Summer Buds are received unwrap and rewrap in a damp tow sack and keep in a cool place. When budding keep buds wrapped to prevent drying out.

We cut all buds from the Luke & Ringer 40-acre Pecan Grove, which was budded to the seven varieties mentioned in Price List during August, 1922.

A very careful study of the varieties mentioned has been made, from every angle and for climatic conditions in Oklahoma and Texas, we know of none better or as good.

For commercial purposes, size, kernel, per cent, uniformity, flavor and good producers, we could not afford to make a change.

All trees in our grove are tagged with Aluminum plates, in order to eliminate any possibility of sending out any "not true to name" buds.

The greatest care and cultivation has been given this Grove, for the purpose of producing the best possible growth, which means thrifty buds.

We are listed at A. & M. College of Oklahoma, as a State Demonstration Project, hence the name Demonstration Grove.

All orders with remittance, will be booked as received and filled in regular order as booked when buds are mature and ready.

Purchaser will be notified in advance of shipment, so as to be ready to place buds when they are received.

To orders for less than 100 of any variety, add 50 percent to List Price. However, no order will be filled for less than $1.00.

We welcome any one interested in Pecan Culture, to visit Ardmore to see what we have and what you can do in the work.
